

Vulture Vomit Recipe

Why Vulture Vomit?

If New World Vultures get startled, they will defensive vomit. If a vulture feels threatened it will regurgitate smelly, partially digested food onto the predator. Great bird adaptation!

TOTAL Preparation Time: 20 minutes

Ingredients:

- 1 package of White Almond Bark, White Chocolate, Milk Chocolate or Dark Chocolate
- 16 whole Graham Crackers (optional)

Topping Ideas/Options:

- Pretzel Sticks, Broken in Half
- Oreo's, Crushed
- Reese's Pieces or M & M's
- Chopped Pistachios
- Macadamia Nuts
- Dried Fruit
- Mini-Marshmallows
- Candy Corn
- Colored Sprinkles

Tools Needed:

- Baking Sheet
- Double Boiler (two saucepans of unequal sizes or a saucepan and glass bowl)
- Parchment Paper
- Spatula

Directions:

- Melt the almond bark or chocolate over a double boiler over low to medium heat. Watch and stir frequently. Allow to cool slightly.
- Prepare a rimmed baking sheet by placing parchment paper on the bottom.
- Arrange the 16 whole graham crackers on the prepared baking sheet if interested and pour almond bark or chocolate on the crackers. If not, pour the almond bark or chocolate directly on the parchment paper. Use a spatula to spread the melted material evenly over the cracker or parchment paper.
- Sprinkle selected toppings on the almond bark or chocolate. Lightly press all the toppings with the palm of hand to make sure they will stick into the melted material.
- Place the pan in the fridge and allow it to set completely.

NOTE: Modified from The Pioneer Woman, Halloween Bark recipe.